BORAH WINS VICTORY AS COMMITTEE TAKES ENFORCEMENT STAND

Most Sweeping Dry Pledge Since Prohibition Will Be Offered For Party Approval; Farm Relief Still Puzzles.

By KENNETH CLARK

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—A plank calling for vigorous enforcement of the eighteenth amendment, was incorporated in the 1928 Republican platform today by the resolutions subcommittee following an all-night session.

The plank pledged the party's nominees to observance and enforcement of the amendment.

Not since constitutional prohibition has been in effect has such a sweeping dry program been adopted by either major party.

The plank was a victory for Senator Borah of Idaho, who has threatened to carry a fight before the convention and the country if the party straddled on prohibition this year. Its approval by the entire committee, was anticipated.

The plank follows:
Law enforcement.

"We reaffirm the American constitutional doctrine as announced by George Washington in his farewell address, to-wit:

"The constitution which at any time exists until changed by the explicit and authentic act of the whole people is sacredly obligatory upon all."

"We also reaffirm the attitude of the American people toward the federal constitution as declared by Abraham Lincoln:

"We are by both duty and inclination bound to stick by the constitution in all its letter and spirit from beginning to end.
Our safety, our liberty, our liberty depends upon preserving the constitution of the United States, as our forefathers made it inviolate."

"The people through the method provided by the constitution have written the 18th amendment into the constitution. The Republican

SMITH AND DONAHEY RUMORED ALLIANCE OF DEMOCRAT PARTY

Ohio Governor In Conference With New

COLUMBUS, O., June 13.—Confirmation concerning reports of a possible alliance to nominate Governor Al Smith, New York, for president and Governor Vic Dona-hey, Ohio, for vice president at the Democratic national convention this month at Houston, Texas, was not available here today.

Interest in these rumors was increased by the announcement yesterday of the scheduled conference between Donahey and Morris S.
Tremaine, Albany, N. Y., state comptroller of New York and head of the state department of audit and control.

After the conference which was held late yesterday and which lasted more than a half-hour behind closed doors, both Governor Dona-hey and Tremaine told newspapermen that the vice presidential situation was not mentioned at the conference.

Politics was referred to only briefly and in a casual manner, Donahey and Tremaine said.

STORY OF DISASTER REVEALED IN RADIO REPORT FROM ITALIA

Nobile and Six Others Buried In Debris Of Gondola

ROME, June 13.—After several hours silence another radio message was received from General Umberto Nobile today for the first time which revealed additional details of the disastrous landing of the dirigible Italia on the ice floes north of Spitzbergen.

The disaster occurred at 10:30 o'clock on the morning of May 25, Nobile stated, just a minute or two before that a radio message was received from the Italia and then came silence which was unbroken until operators began to pick up fragmentary messages in the latter part of last week.

The huge airship suddenly grew heavy and crashed to the ground from a height of 1,500 feet in two minutes, Nobile radioed.

The ship's gondola broke up into splinters burying Nobile and six others in the car in the debris.
All emerged alive, however, although two of the members of the crew suffered broken legs. Nearly all the food supplies and other materials which had been taken aboard the ship were saved.

Luckily the radio apparatus and instruments for determining their position were also saved by the crew, although it was some time before the radio was repaired so that messages could be transmitted.

Those of the crew who were in other parts of the ship drifted with the two gas bags as it soared upward after the crash and landed some distance away.

Nobile's latest message also revealed the identities of the three daring members of the crew who started trekking over the ice seeking aid and for whose safety fears are now held.

The commander stated that on the evening of the disaster, the Swedish professor Malgren and the Italian Navy Commanders Zappi and Mariano left on the thirty-mile journey over the hazardous wastes to Cape North. They intended coming six miles a day. Fifteen days have now passed since they left the other marooned members of the Italia's crew.

Adoption of a resolution asking the co-operation of the Xenia Re-

1928 Greene County Home-Coming was the principal feature of the weekly meeting of the Home-Coming Executive Committee Tuesday night.

The organization has already signified its willingness to assist to the extent of its ability in plans for the celebration in August, according to Chairman T. H. Zell.

A "get-together" dinner-meeting between Home-Coming officials and members of the association is in prospect for a later date.

FOUR CHILDREN PERISH WHEN FIRE DESTROYS THEIR HOME

CLEVELAND, June 13.—
Their escape cut off by smoke burned to death in a fire of undetermined origin here which swept the home of their par-

Benson, here early today, according to fire officials.

The dead are: Ida, 3; Leo-narda, August, Jr., 12, and Ophelia 14.

Benson made a futile attempt to rescue his children when he discovered the blaze.

He said clouds of smoke pouring from the upstairs room where the victims were sleep-

were all dead when found in their beds.

The father said he was awakened about 1 a. m. by stifled cries of his youngest child, Ida. Smoke was pour-

When firemen arrived at the house, a two story frame struc-

REPUBLICAN HOUSE LEADER IS CERTAIN OF HOOVER SUCCESS

By REP. JOHN Q. TILSON—Republican Leader of the House of Representatives
Written for I. N. S.

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—With the first session of the convention over, it is now clear that Herbert Hoover of California will be the Republican nominee for president, and that the ship of state will have at its helm for the next four years a man who can be trusted to hold steadfast to the course of Calvin Coolidge.

Naturally there is some disappointment among the friends of unsuccessful candidates for this office, but I feel confident that before the presidential campaign is finished the people of the United States will have come to such a realization of Mr. Hoover's ability and sincerity of purpose that he will be elected by a majority which will rival that of 1924.

Herbert Hoover is one of the greatest administrators and executives the world has ever known and the country will be fortunate in having such a man in the White House. I think his selection for the presidency will be of particular importance to the farmers of the country, who have been struggling for the past several years with a great problem, the solution of which, in my opinion can be found only in improved marketing and distribution methods.

No man in the country has the experience and ability to meet such a problem as Herbert Hoover, whose service as an engineer, as food administrator during the war and as secretary of commerce, has been marked by an ability amounting almost to genius.

Herbert Hoover has been doing big things in a big way for many years and the presidency will merely give him a wider and more important field for his service.

"The Republican party has traditionally stood for the protection of American labor and domestic industries by tariff duties and I am hoping that we shall again have a strong plank in our platform on that subject."

"I hope that the platform will recommend a revision of the tariff duties along protective lines and that the revision when made will give every bit of protection that can possibly be needed for the products of the farm and mine, as well as for manufactured articles."

rectors and former directors of the defunct Arcadia Bank and Savings Company, Hancock County, which failed last fall with a loss of nearly $275,000, await trial here today, following the action yesterday of Judge Fred L. Hay, Defiance, who overruled motions to quash indictments against the men held jointly liable for the bank's failure.

PICKING OF RUNNING MATE AND PLATFORM FACING CONVENTION

Hoover Forces Will Attempt To Put Candidate Over Quietly; Hope To Placate Disappointed
Candidates And Farmers.

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—Booted and spurred, the Hoover forces climbed into the saddle in the Republican national convention today and prepared to ride down all opposition.

They went to do it as softly as possible for there are enough Republican ill feelings without incurring more.

There is the raucous grumbling of the disappointed farm element, the sullen resentment of the defeated allies, and the admitted lukewarmness of some powerful eastern leaders to be met, but with the nomination prize sewed up, the Hoover captains were everywhere in command.

Their wishes will be sought, and probably will prevail, in the only two important tasks that remain in this convention, the adoption of the platform and the selection of a running mate for the secretary of commerce.

This last task, the selection of a vice-presidential candidate, bids fair to be no easy one.

The two outstanding candidates this morning admittedly were Charles C. Dawes and Senator Charles Curtis, and every hotel in Kansas City harbored others.

The farmers are insisting that an agriculturist be named; the war veterans are lobbying for an ex-soldier; eastern interests are insisting that somebody be selected whose name and personality would be calculated to offset some of Al Smith's admitted popularity along the west upper Atlantic seaboard.
As for favorite sons, they bloomed in nearly every delegation.

Senator Curtis remains in his hotel room, conferring with his friends, and is said to have declared with some heat that he would not have it. The senate offers him no further advancement for he is now Republican leader of
it. Others of his friends are advising him to "have nothing to do with it, but go down fighting for his original objective."

Senator Curtis himself feels that way about it. To friends who went to him last night he said:

"Don't think this fight is over yet. I don't. I'm in it to the end.
I will be a candidate for president on the last ballot taken in this convention. I will be nominated for president, not for vice-president."

The Dawes possibility also was clouded with considerable conflicting advice among the general supporters. Dawes would be satisfactory to many of the easterners, and his work for the McNary-Haugen bill endeared him to the middle-westerners. On the other hand, there are many of the vice president's friends in Kansas City advising against his acceptance of it on the ground of prestige. These point out that General Dawes is in the position of having had his subordinate in public life, a cabinet officer, promoted over his head while his party, in effect, has denied him promotion here at Kansas City. In that situation, they argue, the vice president cannot with dignity accept second place on the ticket with Hoover.

There have been no withdrawals as yet among the bitterly disappointed allies, nor will there be,
their vehement spokesman asserted today, despite the seeming certainty that Hoover will be nominated on the first ballot with some 700-odd votes.

Generally, the allied lines have held fast against the lumbering Hoover bandwagon. The accretions to the Hoover standard have been mainly the "draft Coolidge" delegates, of which there were approximately nearly 200 in the convention when this fight opened. Here and there, there has been wild leaping for footholds on the bandwagon, but no large allied blocs have yet gone over solidly.

The Lowden delegates, which constitute the most numerous opposition bloc to Hoover in the convention, insisted today they were going down the line for the farmers candidate. Senator Curtis' twenty-six loyal Kansans insisted today they were going to vote for him whether or no, and the thirty-three anti-Hoover delegates from Indiana remained clustered under the banners that proclaimed "Watson for President."

"Hold the lines fast, and go down fighting" was the slogan of the

BORAH WINS VICTORY AS COMMITTEE TAKES ENFORCEMENT STAND

Most Sweeping Dry Pledge Since Prohibition Will Be Offered For Party Approval; Farm Relief Still Puzzles.

By KENNETH CLARK
International News Service Staff Correspondent
KANSAS CITY, June 13.—A plank calling for vigorous enforcement of the eighteenth amendment, was incorporated in the 1928 Republican platform today by the resolutions sub-committee following an all-night session.

The plank pledged the party's nominees to observance and enforcement of the amendment.

Not since constitutional prohibition has been in effect has such a sweeping dry program been adopted by either major party.

The plank was a victory for Senator Borah of Idaho, who has threatened to carry a fight before the convention and the country if the party straddled on prohibition this year. Its approval by the entire committee, was anticipated.

The plank follows:

Law enforcement.

"We reaffirm the American constitutional doctrine as announced by George Washington in his farewell address, to wit:

"The constitution which at any time exists until changed by the explicit and authentic act of the whole people is sacredly obligatory upon all."

"We also reaffirm the attitude of the American people toward the federal constitution as declared by Abraham Lincoln:

"We are by both duty and inclination bound to stick by the constitution in all its letter and spirit from beginning to end. I am for the honest enforcement of the constitution. Our safety, our liberty depends upon preserving the constitution of the United States, as our forefathers made it inviolate."

"The people through the method provided by the constitution have written the 18th amendment into the constitution. The Republican party pledges itself and its nominees to the observance and vigorous enforcement of this provision of the constitution."

Senator Borah reported there were only two dissenting voices on the plank.

With the adoption of the prohibition plank, only the controversial farm relief plank remained before the sub-committee. On that question the sixteen members were split. When it was found that no compromise, being made on a compromise, the committee recessed at four o'clock until ten.

Little trouble was experienced in accepting the other planks in the platform as written by Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman.

Announcement of the approval of the prohibition plank was made by Borah, shortly after three o'clock this morning.

"Here, boys," he told newspaper men, "here is the prohibition plank."

Bitter words were exchanged before Borah finally succeeded in obtaining a majority for his plank. Senator-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, who proposed repeal of the 18th amendment, led the fight for the wet.

A meeting of the entire committee was called for two o'clock this afternoon when it is expected the sixteen members of the resolutions sub-committee who drafted the 1928 Republican platform were.

Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman, Senator Borah of Idaho, Senator Bingham of Connecticut, C. C. Teague of California, Henry W. Anderson of Virginia, W. W. Barbour of New Jersey, Earle C. Smith of Illinois, Alanson B. Houghton of New York, A. M. Hyde of Missouri, H. H. Clements of Tennessee, William Allen White of Kansas, Senator-elect Vare of Pennsylvania, J. O. Schaaf of Iowa, Senator Metcalf of Rhode Island, Senator Odell of Nevada, and J. J. Sullivan of Washington.

Sullivan was elected after he had charged "nobody was on the committee to watch out for the veterans' interests."

J. S. Green of Florida, charged that the sub-committee of sixteen was unfavorable to the farmers. The committee was selected by Senator Smoot of Utah, chairman, and included four of his senatorial colleagues.

"It's hand-picked," said Green. "It's

Refusing to concede a Hoover victory, the farmers launched a "button-holing" campaign. At a meeting at Lowden headquarters special committees of women were named to carry the case to women delegates.

At another conference a proposal was made that all delegates fighting Hoover bolt the convention and an open threat of bolt was issued by Walter Maddock on behalf of the North Dakota delegation.

KANSAS CITY, June 13.—Booted and spurred, the Hoover forces climbed into the saddle in the Republican national convention today and prepared to ride down all opposition.

They went to do it as softly as possible for there are enough Republican ill feelings without incurring more.

There is the raucous grumbling of the disappointed farm element, the sullen resentment of the defeated allies, and the admitted luke-warmness of some powerful eastern leaders to be met, but with the nomination prize sewed up, the Hoover captains were everywhere in command.

Their wishes will be sought, and probably will prevail, in the only two important tasks that remain in this convention, the adoption of the platform and the selection of a running mate for the secretary of commerce.

This last task, the selection of a vice-presidential candidate, bids fair to be no easy one.

The two outstanding candidates this morning admittedly were Charles G. Dawes and Senator Charles Curtis, and every hotel in Kansas City harbored others.

The farmers are insisting that the war veterans' lobbying for an ex-soldier; eastern interests are insisting that somebody be selected whose name and personality would be calculated to offset some of Al Smith's admitted popularity along the wet upper Atlantic seaboard. As for favorite sons, they bloomed in nearly every delegation.

Senator Curtis remained in his hotel room, conferring with his friends, and is said to have declared with some heat that he would not have it. The senate offers him no further advancement for he is now Republican leader of it. Others of his friends are advising him to "have nothing to do with it, but go down fighting for his original objective."

Senator Curtis himself feels that way about it. To friends who went to him last night he said:

"Don't think this fight is over yet. It isn't. I'm in it to the end. I will be a candidate for president on the last ballot taken in this convention. I will be nominated for president, not for vice-president."

The Dawes possibility also was belauded with considerable conflicting advice among the general supporters. Dawes would be satisfactory to many of the easterners, and his work for the McNary-Haugen bill endeared him to many of the middle-westerners. On the other hand, there are many of the vice president's friends in Kansas City advising against his acceptance of it on the ground of prestige. These point out that General Dawes is in the position of having had his subordinate in public life, a cabinet officer, promoted over his head while his party, in effect, has denied him promotion here at Kansas City. In that situation, they argue, the vice president cannot with dignity accept second place on the ticket with Hoover.

There have been no withdrawals as yet among the bitterly disappointed allies, nor will there be, their vehement spokesman asserted today, despite the seeming certainty that Hoover will be nominated on the first ballot with some 700-odd votes.

Generally, the allied lines have held fast against the lumbering Hoover bandwagon. The accretions to the Hoover standard have been mainly the "draft Coolidge" delegates, of which there were approximately nearly 200 in the convention when this fight opened. Here and there, there has been wild leaping for footholds on the bandwagon, but no large allied blocs have yet gone over solidly.

The Lowden delegates, which constitute the most numerous opposition bloc to Hoover in the convention, insisted today they were going down the line for the farmers' candidate. Senator Curtis' twenty-six loyal Kansans insisted today they were going to vote for him whether or no, and the thirty-three anti-Hoover delegates from Indiana remained clustered under the banners that proclaimed "Watson for President."

"Hold the lines fast, and go down fighting" was the slogan of the

"Who is She?"

You simply can't keep people from wanting to know who you are when you're as sparklingly fresh and crisply beautiful as dainty Georgette Vorel, lovely New York City girl who lives at 782 Carroll Street, Brooklyn. Everyone admires her lovely figure, and her marvelously clear, rose-tinted complexion, but women marvel most at the softness and lustre of her hair.

"I am so busy that I have almost no time to give to my hair," says Miss Vorel, "and I really don't know what I should do about it, if I hadn't learned how so many of my girl friends here in New York are taking care of theirs."

It's so simple. All you do is put a few dashes of Dandine on your brush each time you use it. This wonderful preparation keeps my hair so soft and lustrous that many friends have commented on it. It makes my scalp feel just grand and all dandruff disappeared with the first few applications. It keeps my hair so clean that I don't have to shampoo nearly so often as I used to.

Dandine isn't oily and doesn't show. It makes hair easy to dress and holds it in place. All drug stores have the 35c bottle. Lovely hair and a healthy scalp for a few cents.

OTEY RENTS POOL TABLE

Marshal Walker Is Open-Minded—He Went To Kansas City Without Reservations

By MARSHAL OTEY WALKER
Special Central Press Correspondent for the Gazette and Delegate to Republican Convention
KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13.—Well, here I am, special delegate from the Old Home Town, to help select the Republican candidate for president.

The editor of The Gazette has kindly asked me to write the inside stuff of what goes on in the convention since I, in my important position, will be in on all the private goings on.

I arrived here today and hurried through the depot, not making myself known, as I hate demonstrations and do not want to be bothered by candidates asking my vote until my mind is made up.

This place is full of people. It looks as though the rest of the United States is empty and everybody is here. The streets are so packed that if one took a deep breath there would be a traffic jam.

I made the rounds of all hotels but they were full. The managers were sorry but they didn't mind I was coming. Being a liberal minded delegate, I came here without any reservations of any kind.

However, I used my influence and my town marshal badge and finally landed the last pool table on Twelfth St. It seems I will have to sleep on it with two gentlemen whom I strongly suspect are foreigners as they are constantly eating onions.

Well, sir, I have already drawn up the platform which I will submit to the committee. If the Republicans adopt my platform they ought to sweep the country. Here it is:

1—Farm relief. Quicker service on free seeds from congressmen.

2—Tariff: Abolish the duty on suspenders and double the tax on Scotch jokes.

3—Prohibition: Law violators should be ashamed or more careful.

4—Aircraft: A law forcing every trans-Atlantic flyer to carry a bar of soap and a towel.

5—Highways: Rerouting of the Haystack Twp. road which now passes through Hootstown so it will pass through my town.

6—Foreign: (1) Prevent Chinese laundrymen from joining their civil war as we need them and (2) disarm everybody in Chicago except the police.

There! That'll knock their eyes out.

P. S.—I have a straight tip that Harry F. Sinclair hasn't a chance for the nomination.

STREETS ARE OILED
With the advent of summer weather, the Street Commission of Yellow Springs has undertaken its annual task of oiling all the main streets in the town, having launched the work Tuesday, June 12.

Arrest of Griggs for alleged violation of the Mann act was requested in a telegram received from the police chief of Carlisle.

After Chief Graham had notified Carlisle police the pair was in custody, he was asked to turn the man over to federal authorities and to hold the woman for arrival of Carlisle authorities.

After receiving the first telegram, police seized the trunk belonging to the couple upon its arrival from the East, and later arrested the pair at the home of the man's parents at Wilberforce. Griggs' father, a police officer at Wilberforce, furnished bond for their release.

According to information from Carlisle, the girl's name is Carrie Holly and her age is 16. She gave her age as 20, however.

Denying they had violated any law, the couple claimed to have been married at Hagerstown, Md., last Friday. They asserted a marriage certificate is among their belongings seized.

Griggs, who is 30, is said to be a graduate of Wilberforce University and a former teacher at Carlisle.

Farm Notes

KIMBER SEEKS RUNT

Last year, a request was made of each of the County Agricultural Agents, in the counties through which the Swine Sanitation Special operated on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, to secure the runt-pig in each of their respective counties. The honor for securing the "prize" pig went to J. R. Kimber, county agent of Greene County. This, however, does not reflect upon the quality of swine raised in Greene County, but shows the perseverance practiced by Mr. Kimber in scouting his county for the runt-pig animal.

A similar request is being made of County Agent Kimber, this year, asking him to find the runt-pig in Greene County. This pig will be killed and a postmortem examination made by Dr. Nighbert, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, as the concluding feature of the program when the Baltimore and Ohio Swine Sanitation Special comes to Xenia. Mr. Kimber is advised that the name of the owner of the prize runt will not be made public.

Dr. H. B. Raffensperger, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who accompanied the train, last year, and who made all postmortem examinations, found that each of the twenty-three pigs he posted showed serious damage had been by intestinal parasites, and that the stunted growth of each pig was a direct result of the worms. Seventeen different parasites were found in the various pigs posted. An average of five were found in each animal.

More runts are due to intestinal parasites than to any other one factor. Infestation will start as soon as the litter is farrowed unless sanitation is practiced. It is safe to say that a pig that has had access to road feed and did not thrive is probably subject to conditions that can be controlled by practicing swine sanitation. Worm control methods have been developed and found practical for use on the average farm. Dr. E. M. Nighbert, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who will accompany the train this year, will explain how these few simple rules outlined in the control method can be followed with the least expenditure of money and labor.

LOCHER WILL SPEAK TO KIWANIS CLUB

U. S. Senator Cyrus Locher will address about one hundred people, members of the Xenia Kiwanis Club and guests at the Elks' Club, Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock.

Ex-Congressman M. R. Danvar, Wilmington and a party of Wilmington people, will attend the meeting. Dinner will precede Senator Locher's speech.

Senator Locher will deliver the commencement address at the O. S. and S. O. Home, Wednesday night, also.

Mrs. Frederick Guest, of London, formerly Anna Phipps, with her daughter, is reported to be one of the backers of the "Friendship" flight which Miss Amelia Earhart and Wilmer Stultz are making from New York to England. She is waiting word that the fliers have taken off from Trepassy Bay, Newfoundland, where they are waiting for favorable weather and winds.

OTEE RENTS POOL TABLE

Marshal Walker Is Open-Minded—He Went To Kansas City Without Reservations

DELEGATES WILL PLEASE REFRAIN FROM SLEEP WALKING

THEY CAN START IN RIGHT HERE WITH A LITTLE RELIEF FOR THE FARMERS

By MARSHAL OTEY WALKER
Special Central Press Correspondent for the Gazette and Delegate to Republican Convention

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 13.—Well, here I am, special delegate from the Old Home Town, to help select the Republican candidate for president.

The editor of The Gazette has kindly asked me to write the inside stuff of what goes on in the convention since I, in my important position, will be in on all the private goings on.

I arrived here today and hurried through the depot, not making myself known, as I hate demonstrations and do not want to be bothered by candidates asking my vote until my mind is made up.

This place is full of people. It looks as though the rest of the United States is empty and everybody is here. The streets are so packed that if one took a deep breath there would be a traffic jam.

I made the rounds of all hotels but they were full. The managers were sorry but they didn't know I was coming. Being a liberal minded delegate, I came here without any reservations of any kind.

However, I used my influence and my town marshal badge and finally landed the last pool table on Twelfth St. It seems I will have to sleep on it with two gentlemen whom I strongly suspect are foreigners as they are constantly eating onions.

Well, sir, I have already drawn up the platform which I will submit to the committee. If the Republicans adopt my platform they ought to sweep the country. Here it is:

1.—Farm relief. Quicker service on free seeds from congressmen.

2.—Tariffs: Abolish the duty on suspenders and double the tax on Scotch jokes.

3.—Prohibition: Law violators should be ashamed or more careful.

4.—Aircraft: A law forcing every trans-Atlantic flyer to carry a bar of soap and a towel.

5.—Highways: Rerouting of the Haystack Twp. road which now passes through Hootstown so it will pass through my town.

6.—Foreign: (1) Prevent Chinese laundrymen from joining their civil war as we need them and (2) disarm everybody in Chicago except the police.

There! That'll knock their eyes out.

P. S.—I have a straight tip that Harry F. Sinclair hasn't a chance for the nomination.

Here from Cincinnati, to interview Griggs.

STREETS ARE OILED

With the advent of summer weather, the Street Commission of Yellow Springs has undertaken its annual task of oiling all the main streets in the town, having launched the work Tuesday, June 12.

Arrest of Griggs for alleged violation of the Mann act was requested in a telegram received from the police chief of Carlisle.

After Chief Graham had notified Carlisle police the pair was in custody, he was asked to turn the man over to federal authorities and to hold the woman for arrival of Carlisle authorities.

After receiving the first telegram, police seized the trunk belonging to the couple upon its arrival from the East, and later arrested the pair at the home of the man's parents at Wilberforce. Griggs' father, a police officer at Wilberforce, furnished bond for their release.

According to information from Carlisle, the girl's name is Carrie Holly and her age is 16. She gave her age as 20, however.

Denying they had violated any law, the couple claimed to have been married at Hagerstown, Md., last Friday. They asserted a marriage certificate is among their belongings seized.

Griggs, who is 30, is said to be a graduate of Wilberforce University and a former teacher at Carlisle. Chief Graham notified a United States district marshal in Dayton Tuesday and received a promise that a federal officer would be sent

Last year, a request was made of each of the County Agricultural Agents, in the counties through which the Swine Sanitation Special operated on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, to secure the runt pig in each of their respective counties. The honor for securing the "prize" pig went to J. R. Kimber, county agent of Greene County. This, however, does not reflect upon the quality of swine raised in Greene County, but shows the perseverance practiced by Mr. Kimber in scouting his county for the runtliest animal.

A similar request is being made of County Agent Kimber, this year, asking him to find the runt pig in Greene County. This pig will be killed and a postmortem examination made by Dr. Nighbert, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, as the concluding feature of the program when the Baltimore and Ohio Swine Sanitation Special comes to Xenia. Mr. Kimber is advised that the name of the owner of the prize runt will not be made public.

Dr. H. B. Rappensperger, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who accompanied the train, last year, and who made all postmortem examinations, found that each of the twenty-three pigs he posted showed serious damage had been by intestinal parasites, and that the stunted growth of each pig was a direct result of the worms.

Seventeen different parasites were found in the various pigs posted. An average of five were found in each animal.

More runts are due to intestinal parasites than to any other one factor. Infestation will start as soon as the litter is farrowed unless sanitation is practiced. It is safe to say that a pig that has access to good feed and did not thrive is probably subject to conditions that can be controlled by practicing swine sanitation. Worm control methods have been developed and found practical for use on the average farmer. Dr. E. M. Nighbert, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who will accompany the train this year, will explain how these few simple rules outlined in the control method can be followed with the least expenditure of money and labor.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

GOD AND THE POOR—He that oppresseth the poor reproacheth his Maker; but he that honoureth him hath mercy on the poor.—Prov. 14:31.

NECESSARY NUISANCES

On the whole the new tax bill which President Coolidge signed is a progressive bill. It retains the inheritance tax, which always has been denounced as wicked and un-American and which is probably the fairest tax in our system. The tax bill also repeals the 3 per cent automobile tax and increases the assessment of theatrical admission taxes from 75 cents to three dollars, thus going after the fellows in the best seats. But the man who buys prize fight seats for over five dollars finds his tax increased, so also does the non-resident find his tax increased. And taxes on foreign built yachts are increased even if the reduction on the corporation tax is from 13.1-2 to 12 per cent.

It is a good bill. Even the extreme progressives can find little fault with the last congress. It passed more liberal legislation and considered seriously more radical legislation than any congress for a dozen years. And when one considers that congress has done all this and has also taken the lid off the Teapot Dome, and that in the last five years big crooks in the cabinet and big crooks in high finance have been held up to the contumely of the world, these seem to be pretty good days.

THIRD PARTY MOVEMENT

Sometimes at presidential elections some element tries to start a third party which shall put either the Republican or Democratic party out of business. The Republican party did that thing to the old Whig party in 1860, but the trick has not been successfully pulled off since that time.

The American people like to vote for someone who has a chance of winning, so they do not usually take to third parties. Those who think the old parties are not all they might be, will have just as good a chance to improve them and make them responsive to new ideas, as to obtain recognition for their principles through an entirely new organization, which would require many years to develop into a party of influence and force.

PROFITS IN PROBES

Every once in a while one hears that congress is wasting the people's money in a lot of foolish probes. As a matter of fact, the probe of the Teapot Dome and Doheny's leases brought the government nearly one hundred million dollars worth of good property, and the probe of the Continental Trading company's crooked transaction has returned to the government two million dollars of back taxes.

The real grievance in some sources against the probes is not that they are expensive, but that they are effective in uncovering the corruption and waste of big crooks.

LEARNS FROM BARBARISM

It was not given to the white man, even the so-called civilized white man, to know all. In the island of New Guinea, in the South Seas, the native builds a cool hut over the water. He lives in comfort, while the white man in those parts sweats in a modern galvanized iron house. Man coming up through the long ages from savagery has forgotten more than his savagery. He has forgotten some things, learned when he was close to nature, that he might well have remembered.

AUTHORS

Writers may do more than write. Meredith Nicholson, famous Indiana novelist, is a member of the city council of Indianapolis and is busily engaged in leading a movement against graft and corruption in that city. He is not the only author of note to take active part in the practical affairs of men and politics, but there have not been many. It is a sign of good health in the republic when men of all sorts take interest in public affairs.

NOBILITY

Nobility is most frequently associated with majesty. We link the famous names of the past with our idea of nobility. We think of a noble man as a giant of intellect or benevolence or of great material achievement. But true nobleness has little to do with the spectacular. It may be and usually is the characteristic of the really great, but it may also characterize the peasant. Nobility belongs so often with the humble, the loyal, and the courageous.

YIELDING GRACEFULLY

Yielding gracefully is a sign of both good manners and character. If you have to yield a point, whether it is a big or little one, why not do it in a manner that makes the other fellow think you like it? You may not feel him into believing you, but at least you have proved to yourself and the world that you are no whiner.

TEST OF LOVE

Love which carries with it no respect is not worthy of the great name of love. It is merely an emotion held in common with animals of a lower type. Respect is the lasting basis of all the love that has any durable reality to it.

NOT AUTOMATIC

There is nothing automatic about going up or going down. The American republic may or may not depart from its ideals and join the procession of those fallen nations of the past which have stalked across the stage of time. We are not destined by fate for anything beyond our own making. The destiny of Americans is up to America.

SAFE FLYING

Despite accidents, which occur in every form of transportation, the record of mail planes and commercial planes has proved that flying is a safe form of travel. It is said the National Air Transport company planes have flown more than 2,000,000 miles with only one fatal accident.

The Diary of a New Yorker

by CLARK KINNAIRD

NEW YORK, June 13.—New York may be the busiest city in the world, and New Yorkers the most sophisticated folks alive, but it is an easy place to collect a crowd. A broken-down auto long since ceased to be a curiosity in a never Hazard, Ky., but it is a never failing source of interest on Broadway. A man applying gold leaf to lettering on a window is certain to attract an appreciative audience. Flapjack flippers in children's windows no longer have the powerful attraction they used to possess, but the appeal in the sight of men repairing shoes on machines or making cigars by hand in a window has not diminished.

Hawkers in fake auction rooms on Broadway and Sixth avenue are never without hearers, a few of whom ever seem to buy anything. Excavations, until they reach the stage where everything is boarded up, are a big display. One contractor is thoughtful enough to make the top railings around excavations on Broadway of round, unsplinterable wood, so that the "inspectors" are saved from injury. The other day traffic on both sidewalks on West 42nd street was blocked by persons gazing at workmen using a sand blast machine to clean a building.

"Pitchmen," whose subtle harangues and dubious wares get little or no attention in Tulsa, Okla., Ice, Ore., Bald Knob, Mo., Jackson, Miss., and Longmore, Me., find themselves big attractions on Chambers street, New York, N. Y.

The explanation, of course, is that New York is the biggest small town on earth; and I do not set this down as an original discovery. Barnum found it out long ago.

In most towns, a banker or prominent businessman would be asked to be seen following a fire truck. But in New York captains of industry glory in being honorary firemen, in having fire alarm signals in their houses, and in racing after the salvage trucks.

Restaurants, night clubs and such naturally dislike for customers to bring in liquor. It's against the law, and besides it hurts the business of the house bootlegger. Various methods are tried to force customers to buy their drinks on the premises. One roadhouse owner has trained a dog to silently search under tables for liquor and carry off the bottles.

What do you want to know about New York? Ask C. K., 2200 Times building, New York, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

Circus Dogs

For years I wondered how performing dogs in circuses and other traveling shows were trained to turn back-somersaults. Even if the dog knew what one wanted him to do, the mere skill required would seem to make the feat one of tremendous difficulty. I recall how, as a child, I tried to make my little rat-terrier perform this trick, but I gave it up when I reflected that I could not possibly learn to do it myself.

After years of curiosity about this trick, the last time I saw it done in a circus I hunted up the dog trainer and asked him for an explanation.

Like most mysteries, it was simple enough when understood. He showed me a little harness, consisting of a girder around the dog's body, on each side of which were two straps attached by swivels to permit the dog to turn over and over without twisting the straps. The trainer described how he would start the dog up a little inclined plane, holding these straps and turning the dog over in mid-air, after which he would reward him with a piece of liver.

Of course, he carried out the training when the dog was hungry and consequently anxious to go to any length to obtain choice food. He made the dog want to do the trick.

The dog in time came to help himself and would spring with his hind legs at the proper time to throw himself over backward. Gradually the straps could be dispensed with. Once the dog caught the idea of what he was expected to do, and tried to do it, the rest was comparatively easy.

Many seemingly difficult tricks may be taught to a dog if proper associations are built by easy stages. To make a dog jump through your hands is at first a problem, and yet I find that by doing this gradually I can teach this to almost any dog in about ten minutes. First, I make sure the dog is hungry; then I hold a cane in my hand and make him walk over it toward food, temptingly displayed. Gradually I raise the cane an inch or two. After I have considerably increased its height, I drape a newspaper of cloth over it to make it natural for the dog to go over rather than under it. If he does not go over it, I refuse to give him the food. In a short time he recognizes that he must go over the cane to obtain the coveted biscuit or chunk of meat.

The next stage may be to hold the cane with my hands on it only a few inches apart; and the final stage is to dispense with the cane entirely and clasp my hands together. The whole process, as I say, may be taught in a few minutes.

I knew of a retrieving dog that was taught to fetch objects from persons a few feet away, and the distance was gradually increased until the dog would go to a grocery, several blocks away, after articles mentioned in a note attached to his collar. These things

No one knows how many dog owners spoil their pets by their manner of feeding them. If given too little food and drink, a dog may be forced to turn scavenger and work up regular free-lunch parties among the neighbors. On the other hand, if fed too often, or whenever the owner thinks about it, a dog gradually comes to have food on his mind all the time. A grown dog should be taught to expect food only once a day, and then all he wants. Naturally this should be in the evening after he has done his exercises.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

The Importance of Summer Daintiness

This is the time of the year when the charm of beauty lies in its daintiness—the time when immaculacy and freshness are at a premium.

When the thermometer begins soaring and the heat and humidity with each other, all to make us uncomfortable, it is hardly unusual to note that the woman who appears cool and fresh and dainty at any and all hours of the day possesses a noticeable and an enviable loveliness.

Coolness is in itself a problem we cannot solve. We know the importance of omitting heavy foods from our diets—that is a subject I shall go into more fully later on—but external daintiness, that is not only a beauty problem but an economic one as well. The business girl cannot take a bath and change her clothes during the day, and yet it is quite and necessary for her to look fresh and charming across the office desk when she is taking last-minute dictation, as it is for the housewife to be cool and dainty at her dinner table.

The summer time has presented problems to women since the world began. In the older civilization, the heat drove the Roman matrons to the hills, while their lords husbands spent the mid-day hours in the cool public baths.

Josephine Bonaparte, several hundred years later, in the name of the coveted personal daintiness ordered hundreds of undergarments made for her, and in the warm weather she changed every garment she wore three times a day.

And then they used perfumes! Every scent and toilet water that nature and art had ever combined will never disturb your loveliness.

to perfect, and these, so the ladies of the aristocratic courts fondly and incorrectly believed, protected their daintiness against the perspiration and body odors which neat seems to develop and bring out.

Beau Brummel, in England, at about this period, turned up his aristocratic nose at the coying scents the ladies affected, and announced that perfume was in bad taste, and that the man who valued his reputation would use none of it; instead, send all his linen to be washed and dried on a tannin-lined line. Thus entered an era of freshness, born of meticulous self-care. For the Beau was correct in his assumptions.

There is no substitute for absolute cleanliness. All the perfume in the world will not cover perspiration odors, nor will it do so much as neutralize them. In fact, any heavy odor has the tendency to accentuate rather than hide, in the summer time, the daily bath is a social command! Two baths a day, morning and evening, are twice as good—and most refreshing!

The marvel that lasts for two weeks the rest of the year must be had at least once a week and perhaps twice, in the summer time.

In these days of easily tubbed washable silk and satin underwear it is no great hardship to renew the freshness of your undergarments every single day, and it is well worth the extra effort in the coolness and cleanliness it imparts to your physical being.

There is one pretty safe rule to go by in preserving summer daintiness: If you feel clean, you are most probably looking cool. And if you follow the suggestions I am going to make I am sure that the murky, humid days of early summer will be able to handle this mail and be helpful to you, we have formulated the following rules, and unless they are complied with, your letters cannot receive attention.

1. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. They will be forwarded to my New York office. Sign your name as evidence of good faith; it will not be used in any way. (When I answer you in the column, I use one initial.)

2. Write legibly and with a pen—if your handwriting is not clear get someone to write for you, or use a typewriter. Do not write more than 200 words. Remember the enormous number of letters I get!

3. When you ask for material which we offer in the column from time to time, you must inclose a large-sized, self-addressed stamped envelope (a. s. e.) and two cents. The address must include your full name, street and number, town and state. (Do not simply write "City," for we cannot tell which city it is.) The booklet on Petersizing—gaining and reducing—is the only one for which you must include ten cents in coin extra. (Only one reducing and gaining pamphlet will be sent to a letter.)

4. Do not ask for diagnosis or individual treatment; I am not in private practice in any way. Your questions will be answered in the column as soon as possible if they are of general interest and can be answered in a newspaper column. Watch the daily articles for something similar to the questions you want discussed, and consider yourself answered when you see them, whether your initials are appended or not. I must answer questions collectively many times in order to save time and space.

5. Allow at least three weeks to lapse before thinking your request for material has gone astray or is not answered because you have not followed the rules. Allow a much longer time for an answer to appear in the column.

Don't forget to enclose the s. a. s. e. and two cents with your request for any material, and the additional ten cents in coin if you desire the booklet on reducing and gaining. If you ask for more than one article, better send a large stamped envelope. I shall run these rules at stated times to remind you and to keep the newcomers in line.

Your message telling me how much you enjoy the column and how much benefit you derive from it, are an inspiration to me and to the followers, and make our work happier and therefore more helpful. So I feel like adding a last rule. Save some of your 200 words to continue this practice!

Household Hints

By MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

Strawberries may be used in such a variety of ways when they are in season, that one seldom tires of them. In today's menu they are served in the pudding sauce.

Roast Beef      Browned Potatoes
Gravy      Buttered Peas
Lettuce and Green Onion Served
With Any Desired Dressing
Cottage Pudding      Coffee

Today's Recipes

Cottage Pudding—Three tablespoons butter, three-fourths cup sugar, one egg, one-half cup hot water, one and one-fourth cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder, one-half-teaspoon vanilla, one-eighth-teaspoon salt. Cream butter and gradually beat in sugar. Add egg well beaten. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt and add to first mixture. Add hot water and beat until batter is smooth. Add vanilla and pour into an oiled and floured shallow pan. Bake 25 minutes in moderately hot oven. Cut in squares and serve warm with the following sauce: Four tablespoons butter, three-fourths cup powdered sugar, one-half-teaspoon vanilla, one cup of crushed strawberries, one-half cup whipping cream. Cream butter and gradually beat in the sugar which has been sifted. Beat until creamy. Fold in cream, whipped until firm, and serve at once.

Suggestions

Paper Laundry Bags. You will find that the heavy paper shopping bags purchased at variety stores for 10 cents make very convenient laundry bags. They are easily accessible, quickly emptied and economically replaced. They may be had in enough varieties of color and decoration that will harmonize with any room color scheme. They are especially useful in collecting the small pieces and eliminate much sorting on wash day.

Keep Them Clean.

All fancy cutters, special beaters and fancy molds, should be cleaned and kept in boxes when not in daily use. These things get dusty, clogged, and often bent by careless handling, and they are expensive. Glass cooking utensils will only suffer from dust on the shelves when not in use.

When you see them, whether your initials are appended or not. I must answer questions collectively many times in order to save time and space.

5. Allow at least three weeks to lapse before thinking your request for material has gone astray or is not answered because you have not followed the rules. Allow a much longer time for an answer to appear in the column.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Cowdrey is generally recognized as the great weakness of our two major political parties of today.

Our get-out-the-vote enthusiasts make a tremendous to-do about the electorate's indifference but neglect to say anything about the uselessness of casting a ballot which means substantially the same thing whichever way it's cast. Five or six months ago there really seemed to be promise of a campaign in which some lines would be drawn. More recently, with the conventions impending and the politicians getting scared, the party managements on both sides have been working overtime at the job of denaturing everything—and so successfully that it appears unlikely any reasonably probable presidential nominee will signify much—not even as a personality, for you can't respect a straddler, whoever he is.

So the question arises—why isn't it a good time for a third ticket?—which does mean something—and for which there have been hints of an increasing demand.

The painful answer is—as soon as a so-called independent makes his appearance, he becomes a straddler, too.

He's afraid to take any position at all for fear it will be too advanced. He's afraid to say anything, because, even though he may win a few votes by saying it, he's afraid he'll lose still more.

There was a third party convention in Cleveland in 1924, which I saw myself, and heard.

It was advertised as a gathering of the broadest political catholicity. All advanced elements were urged to be represented. It was recognized that the majority would have to rule, but everybody was to be heard.

The Wisconsin progressives were present in a body—Henrik Shipstead, farmer-labor senator; Victor Berger, socialist congressman; Pete Wittig, a taxer—congressman Up from among the delegates rose a rough-looking guy—"Mister Chairman"—in resonant tones—"I speak for the I. W. W."

Instantly strong hands closed on the scruff of his pants, and out on the lake front he landed—"Finish your speech there."

I talked with him. He wasn't a bad chap. "All I wanted," he assured me, "was a voice."

Back in Washington, in an executive news capacity at the time I sent a reporter to see the late Senator LaFollette, the third group's presidential nominee.

Among other things, the senator declared himself "wet," currently "own good time" "wet," were ringing for me all over town. The senator must see me at once. I failed to connect with him personally, but I did see his son—"young Bob," then his secretary, now himself a senator.

"In his own good time," said "young Bob," "my father intends to declare himself on prohibition, but now would be premature. He expressed himself inadvertently."

So I choked it off. The senator's "own good time" never came. Prohibition "wasn't an issue" in his campaign. Too many progressives are dries. Too many are wets, too. The senator was honest—I don't dispute it—but he was a politician also.

It was advertised as a gathering of the broadest political catholicity. All advanced elements were urged to be represented. It was recognized that the majority

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

The Meaning of Sorrow

"If love cannot come to fruition why does it come to sorrow the heart?" writes a correspondent. Why, indeed? If a life full of promise cannot mature and fulfill that promise, why was it ever born? Thus sadly we muse when a fine young man or woman, just blossoming into maturity, is cut down.

We cannot answer. All we see is that the friends who help us most when we are in trouble are those who have suffered; often the most cheerful, optimistic person we know is the one who has met with all kinds of misfortune. There are times when sorrow overwhelms us so that we can do nothing but bow our heads and let wave after wave of anguish roll over us. But it never lasts, thank God. We raise our heads and go on, remembering, but not crushed and, if we will, we can be so much bigger, so much more understanding of others through our own grief.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: Can you give me some advice to help me adjust my life? For the past several years my heart has been attuned to one thing, living for that alone, everything else being secondary in my thoughts. I was so sure, from looks and actions, that I was beloved by a certain party, and now am forced to believe that it was a product of my own imagination. My heart has gone out wandering in a maze of golden dreams, and I don't know what to do. I can ever return to the days of yore, when life was just drifting with the tide, uneventful and drab? Do you think that I can forget my heart hunger and come back to earth and placid living again, and learn to regard this party as a friend only? The call of the heart is so strong that it seems that I am left in a helpless, dazed condition and unable to understand why this had to be. If love cannot come to fruition why does it come to sorrow the heart?"

"PERPLEXED."

I don't know why it is, Perplexed, but love and sorrow come to all, unasked and unwanted. Yes, after a while life will resume its normal trend and probably the one you love will become a dear friend only. Hard work is the best thing I know to bring one back to normal after the breaking of such a dream.

"Dear Mrs. Lee: I am 18 and have been going with a boy of 17 for 10 months. I love him very much and I think he loves me. I would hate to give him up. Dear Mrs. Lee, won't you please advise me what to do? My parents like him very much. FIVE-FOOT-SIX"

I see no reason why you should give him up.

One tablespoon ammonia to a quart of tepid water is excellent for sponging a shiny skirt.

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

BOBOLINKS SAIL IN A FEATHERED BOAT

Bobolink's eyes were sparkling over the memory of his adventure. He continued:

"My mother had wife and I told Oliver Ostreich that we would accept his invitation that the big bird backed around right under the branch upon which we were sitting and down we hopped upon his back and cuddled up among his feathers.

"His feathers were so deep and so thick we almost got lost. We had to climb up on a plume and hang on tight to keep from sinking so far down in the fluff that we couldn't have seen a thing.

"Then off Ostreich started and for just a moment I lost my breath. The wind could have gone no faster. I peered over the top of my plume and I couldn't see that the big bird's feet touched the ground. And wife said the same thing.

"On and on we went, past a grove of palm trees, by a lot of sand mounds, up a hill and over a plain and then—right in front of us we saw a stream of water.

"Of course wife and I thought that Oliver Ostreich would turn and run along the water's bank. Did he? He did not. Suddenly kersplash! Right into the water Ostreich jumped. My, we were frightened!

"The waves splashed us and we flew up into the air. Surely Ostreich would drown! and if we didn't catch out we would drown, too. What in the world had he done such a thing for? But we need not have worried. That greatbird could swim almost as well as any duck. With all his neck and head above the water and just a little of his body showing, Oliver Ostreich paddled along; slowly but surely he neared the other side of the stream. And when we saw that Ostreich was not going to sink we felt ashamed of ourselves and

HUDSON-ESSEX AND ROTARIANS DEFEATED IN DOUBLE HEADER

Fans were treated to a double-header in the American Softball League Tuesday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field, both games being limited to seven innings by agreement.

In the opening game, which was a regularly-scheduled contest, the Hudson-Essex nine sustained its first defeat of the season and relinquished first place in the standing by losing to the Carroll-Binder Co. team 15 to 13. It was a contest marked by good, bad and indifferent baseball.

Carroll-Binder won the game with a three-run rally in the last half of the seventh round. Leveck pitched for the losers and Swindler for the winners.

In the second half of the twin bill, the reinforced Lang Chevrolet Co. assumed first place in the league by nosing out the Rotary Club 9 to 7. Langs are now in first place by a half-game margin.

This was a game postponed from last week. Kersey, new Lang pitcher, won his second game in two days. Kimber twirled for the Rotarians.

First place it at stake in a National League game between the Firemen and Harness Wednesday night.

KONJOLA GAVE HER NEW STRENGTH AND ENERGY, SHE SAYS

Restored Her Appetite and Built Up Rundown System; Now Enjoys Glorious Health

Twenty-two different roots and herbs combined with other recognized medicinal ingredients, go into the making of this new Konjola medicine. Sufferers from every section of Xenia are praising this compound after it relieved them of disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Stubborn cases of rheumatism and neuritis have been ended. The Konjola Man is personally explaining the merits of this medicine to vast crowds of local residents every day and at the same time, many well-known men and women are strongly endorsing this remedy. For instance, just a few days ago Mrs. Howard Miller, R. R. No. 3, Xenia, made the following statement:

"No one can realize the value of any medicine until they have tried it and I was very skeptical about Konjola until it had done so much to build up my strength and health," said Mrs. Miller. "Now I cannot deny that it is everything that it is claimed to be. I know that my new found health is due to this medicine and I cannot praise it too highly."

"For a long time my health was in a terribly rundown condition and no matter what kinds of medicines I took they never seemed to help me the least bit. I was so weak that it was practically impossible for me to do my housework. When I got up in the morning I always felt worse than when I went to bed the night before. I felt so weak and drabby that it was drudgery for me to go through the day. For hours at a time I would roll and toss on my bed before going to sleep. My appetite was very poor and what I did manage to eat would not nourish me the way nature intends the food to do. I actually thought that I would go through the rest of my life in a rundown and disordered condition."

"I had tried so many remedies without relief that I thought no medicine would do me any good. When I first heard about Konjola I did not get it right away and there is where I made my mistake. If only I had taken this medicine sooner I would not have suffered so long. But one day I made up my mind to give it a trial and all that I can say is that I was certainly surprised when Konjola helped me right from the start. It has completely ended my health troubles. I first noticed that my appetite began to pick up until it was back to a normal condition. Then I began to gain weight and was getting stronger every day until now I enjoy doing my work. I am no longer restless at night but I always drop right off into a sound and restful sleep and wake up the next morning feeling completely refreshed. I feel like an entirely different person than did two months ago. I believe Konjola is deserving of every bit of the praise that it is getting. I wish to always endorse it because I know it is a wonderful medicine."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, Xenia, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

JUDGE WRIGHT WILL AGAIN SEEK OFFICE

Announcement of his candidacy for re-nomination on the Republican ticket at the August 15 primary was made Wednesday by Probate Judge S. C. Wright, who expects to file his declaration of candidacy for a second term of four years.

Judge Wright was originally appointed to the position January 1, 1925 to fill the unexpired term of J. C. Marshall when the latter became prosecuting attorney. After serving a month and nine days as an appointee, Judge Wright began his first four-year elective term, February 9, 1925.

ELEVEN GRADUATE WEDNESDAY FROM ANTIOCH ACADEMY

Eleven students will be graduated at the last commencement exercises which will be held at Antioch Academy, a preparatory school of Antioch College, Wednesday, June 13.

The senior class will be addressed by E. C. Zavitz, former principal of the Academy, who, with Mrs. Zavitz, has been spending the last year studying at Oxford.

The Antioch Academy is to be discontinued and its pupils will attend Yellow Springs High School in a new building under construction, which will be completed by fall.

It is planned to have the pupils in the lower grades join the classes of the regular village school.

Fishing Chats with The Old Angler

NUMBER FOUR
No matter how remote you go or what fine troutling places you happen to discover, and for a time enjoy much to yourself, sooner or later your private angling nooks will be found by other nomadic troutsters and the crowds come flivvering in to interrupt your solo troutling.

With the ideal May, June and July weather, motor camping for your troutling vacation is the proper plan, for then you can pitch your tent bungalow right on lake or stream and fish morning, noon or night, at will.

You can be up at daylight, when the woodland bird concert awakens you and affords a pleasant contrast from the buzz of the alarm clock. Then you can hike to the nearby waters or just turn over and snore, as you take the notion.

In this way, when you locate for some time on one stream, you can locate the bunkers, and by sneaking back at intervals eventually you will dangle just the right bait and land the whoppers which otherwise you stand slight chances of hooking.

Then, if troutling goes into low gear, or the crowds infringe upon your sport, you can quickly fold your rucksack and amble on to other lakes or streams and find sport and brain food to your satisfaction.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of helpful hints to fishermen, appearing exclusively in The Gazette.

Sportistory

Wednesday, June 13
Walter Johnson fanned ten Chicago White Sox in a game, 1910. It was this season in which Johnson rolled up his record of 313 strikeouts.

Christy Mathewson pitched a no-hit game against Chicago for the Giants, 1905. Score, 1-0.

Babe Ruth hit his third and last home run of the 1917 season. He hit two home runs this date off Dause of Detroit, 1921.

R. Hubbard in the running broad jump leaped 25 feet, 10 7/8 inches for a new record, 1925.

Personalities IN SPORT

LEFTY GROVE

Robert Moses Grove, star left-handed pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, was born at Lonaconing, Md., March 6, 1900.

Grove began his professional career at Martinsburg, in the Blue Ridge league in 1920. The same year he went to Baltimore, where he aided greatly in winning the string of International league championships the Orioles rolled up.

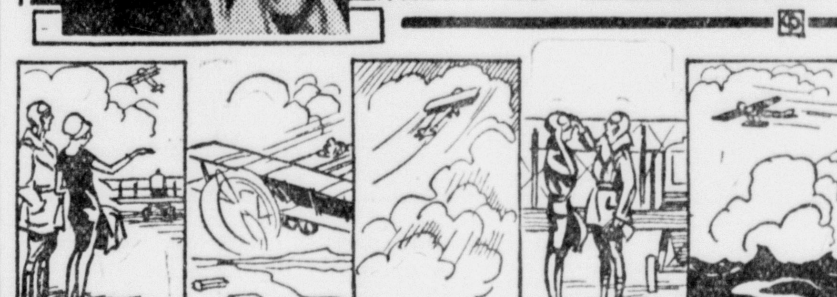

With Baltimore Grove won twenty-five games in 1921, twenty-seven in 1923 and twenty-six in 1924. He was sold in 1924 to the Athletics.

He really did not get going with the A's until 1927, when he won twenty games and lost but thirteen, for a .606 average.

Thurman Wical, formerly of the Bowersville Bayliffs, is said to be the sensation of the Sally League this spring as a member of the pitching staff of the Charlotte, N. C. Hornets.

Wical has a pitching record to date of a few points better than an 800 average, indicating that he is winning a big majority of his games.

"GIRL LINDBERGH" Amelia Earhart Likened To Trans-Atlantic Hero—Is Determined.

BOSTON, Mass., June 13.—The "Girl Lindbergh," so frequently likened to the flying colonel, resembles him in more ways than one.

In the first place, and most noticeable, is the matter of appearance. There is the same slight, tall figure, and the same blonde coloring, the same pointed face, and remarkably similar features. But in addition, both flyers are marked by a calm fixity of purpose, a monosyllabic reticence, a determination which overcomes all obstacles, and a thoroughness which prevents mistakes before they happen.

Knew What She Wanted
These qualities have been present in Miss Amelia Earhart ever since she was a little girl, her mother and sister assert. They picture a childhood in which this slight, blonde youngster knew exactly what she wanted and went ahead to get it. Always gracious, always considerate, and always determined.

She was born at Atchison, Kansas, in 1898. Her early childhood was passed in that place, until the family moved to Chicago. Her primary schooling was divided between Atchison and Chicago, and in the Illinois city she attended the Hyde Park School.

After graduating from the Hyde Park School in 1916, she went to Ogontz School for Girls, near Philadelphia, to finish. Here she studied for two years, until the summer of 1918. She is remembered as a reserved, composed, almost Coolidge-an figure who determined to read a book a day as part of her education and who carried out her determination.

Took To Aviation
Her former teachers and fellow-pupils were amazed however, when she took up aviation. Her earlier bent had been all toward literature, and she had shunned the sciences. A chance, extended visit to California in 1918 affected her entire future. She visited the flying field at Glendale, and a strange interest began to develop within her for the queer, winged monsters which flew. Before long she was taking lessons. Ten lessons and she was ready for solo, and within a short time she was one of the first woman pilots of the country. She developed rapidly, and two years later made a world's altitude record for women, 14,000 feet. This record stood for two years.

EMPLOYERS VISIT ANTIOCH COLLEGE

A group of Dayton and Middletown employers of cooperative students of Antioch College, including officials of the Delco-Remy Corp., Dayton, the Frigidaire plant and other large corporations, held a joint meeting in Yellow Springs Tuesday.

The program for the day included a tour of the college campus, renewing old acquaintances with students and an informal softball game among employers.

Late in the afternoon the more than sixty visitors gathered in the college dining room for a banquet. Following the dinner, President Arthur E. Morgan, of Antioch, delivered an address.

WOMAN HURT WHEN AUTO OVERTURNS

Mrs. Ada Curry, Jamestown, is in a Xenia hospital with a dislocated hip and minor injuries, received when the automobile in which she was riding overturned in a ditch on the Charleston Pike, four miles from Jamestown, Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

A man companion, whose name could not be ascertained, received cuts about the head but was less seriously hurt than Mrs. Curry. Cause of the accident is not known. The car was demolished when it overturned and was taken to a Jamestown garage. Dr. A. D. Rittenour, Jamestown, was called to the scene of the accident and removed Mrs. Curry to the hospital after dressing her companion's wounds.

AUTOIST FINED

F. W. Warner, Dayton, O., paid a fine of $15 and costs following his plea of guilty to a reckless driving charge before Judge S. C. Wright in Probate Court Tuesday afternoon.

O. H. Cornwell, county road patrolman, who arrested Warner Tuesday morning on the Dayton and Xenia Pike after a three-mile chase, declared he was doing better than fifty miles an hour.

They picture a childhood in which this slight, blonde youngster knew exactly what she wanted and went ahead to get it. Always gracious, always considerate, and always determined.

She was born at Atchison, Kansas, in 1898. Her early childhood was passed in that place, until the family moved to Chicago. Her primary schooling was divided between Atchison and Chicago, and in the Illinois city she attended the Hyde Park School.

After graduating from the Hyde Park School in 1916, she went to Ogontz School for Girls, near Philadelphia, to finish. Here she studied for two years, until the summer of 1918. She is remembered as a reserved, composed, almost Coolidge-an figure who determined to read a book a day as part of her education and who carried out her determination.

Took To Aviation
Her former teachers and fellow-pupils were amazed however, when she took up aviation. Her earlier bent had been all toward literature, and she had shunned the sciences. A chance, extended visit to California in 1918 affected her entire future. She visited the flying field at Glendale, and a strange interest began to develop within her for the queer, winged monsters which flew. Before long she was taking lessons. Ten lessons and she was ready for solo, and within a short time she was one of the first woman pilots of the country. She developed rapidly, and two years later made a world's altitude record for women, 14,000 feet. This record stood for two years.

HUDSON-ESSEX AND ROTARIANS DEFEATED IN DOUBLE HEADER

Fans were treated to a double-header in the American Softball League Tuesday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field, both games being limited to seven innings by agreement.

In the opening game, which was a regularly-scheduled contest, the Hudson-Essex nine sustained its first defeat of the season and relinquished first place in the standing by losing to the Carroll-Binder Co. team 15 to 13. It was a contest marked by good, bad and indifferent baseball.

Carroll-Binder won the game with a three-run rally in the last half of the seventh round. Leveck pitched for the losers and Swindler for the winners.

In the second half of the twin bill, the reinforced Lang Chevrolet Co. assumed first place in the league by nailing out the Rotary nine.

This was a game postponed from last week. Kersey, new Lang pitcher, won his second game in two days. Kimber twirled for the Rotarians.

Place it at stake in a National League game between the Firemen and Harness Wednesday night.

Hudson-Essex lineup: Herr, ss; Jay, 3b; R. Smith, 2b; McCarran, cf; Leveck, p; T. Smith, 1b; Creswell, lf; Rakoff, c; Wones, rf.

Carroll-Binder lineup: Leachy, 3b; Jay, rf; Randall, c; Murrell, cf; Newell, lf; Hurrell, 1b; Hoag, ss; Swindler, p; Rachford, 2b.

Score by innings:
Hudson-Essex — 3 5 0 2 1 2 0—13
Carroll-Binder — 1 3 5 2 1 0 3—15

Langs lineup: Harner, 1b; McGee, 3b; Kersey, p; D. McCoy, cf; Gould, 2b; L. McCoy, c; Vannorsdall, ss; Anderson, rf; Harbin, cf.

Restored Her Appetite and Built Up Her System; Now Enjoys Glorious Health

Twenty-two different roots and herbs combined with other recognized medical ingredients, make up the making of this new Konjola medicine. Sufferers from every section of Xenia are praising this compound after it relieved them of disorders of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Stomach cases of rheumatism and neuritis have been ended. The Konjola Man is personally explaining the merits of this medicine to vast crowds of local residents every day and at the same time, many well-known men and women are strongly endorsing this remedy. For instance, just a few days ago Mrs. Howard Miller, R. R. No. 3, Xenia, made the following statement:

"No one can realize the value of any medicine until they have tried it and I was very skeptical about Konjola until it had done so much to build up my strength and health" said Mrs. Miller. "Now I cannot deny that it is everything that it is claimed to be. I know that my new found health is due to this medicine and I cannot praise it too highly."

"For a long time my health was in a terribly rundown condition and no matter what kinds of medicines I took they never seemed to help me the least bit. I was so weak that it was practically impossible for me to do my housework. When I got up in the morning I always felt worse than when I went to bed the night before. I felt so weak and draggy that it was draggy for me to go through the day. For hours at a time I would roll and toss on my bed before going to sleep. My appetite was very poor and what I did manage to eat would not nourish me the way nature intends the food to do. I actually thought that I would go through the rest of my life in a rundown and disordered condition."

"I had tried so many remedies without relief that I thought no medicine would do me any good. When I first heard about Konjola I did not get it right away and there is where I made my mistake. If only I had taken this medicine sooner I would not have suffered so long. But one day I made up my mind to give it a trial and all that I can say is that I was certainly surprised when Konjola helped me right from the start. It has completely ended my health troubles. I first noticed that my appetite began to pick up until it was back to a normal condition. Then I began to gain weight and was getting stronger every day until now I enjoy doing my work. I am no longer restless at night but I always drop right off into a sound and restful sleep and wake up the next morning feeling completely refreshed. I feel like an entirely different person than I did two months ago. I believe Konjola is deserving of every bit of the praise that it is getting. I wish to always endorse it because I know it is a wonderful medicine."

The Konjola Man is at the Gallia Drug Store, Xenia, where he is meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given. Adv.

JUDGE WRIGHT WILL AGAIN SEEK OFFICE

Announcement of his candidacy for re-nomination on the Republican ticket at the August 15 primary was made Wednesday by Probate Judge S. C. Wright, who expects to file his declaration of candidacy for a second term of four years.

Judge Wright was originally appointed to the position January 1, 1925 to fill the unexpired term of J. C. Marshall when the latter became prosecuting attorney. After serving a month and nine days as an appointee, Judge Wright began his first four-year elective term, February 9, 1925.

The Antioch Academy is to be discontinued and its pupils will attend Yellow Springs High School in a new building under construction, which will be completed by fall.

It is planned to have the pupils in the lower grades join the classes of the regular village school.

Fishing Chats with The Old Angler

NUMBER FOUR

No matter how remote you go or what fine troutling places you happen to discover, and for a time enjoy much to yourself, sooner or later your private angling hooks will be found by other nomadic troutlers and the crowds come thriving in to interrupt your solo troutling.

With the ideal May, June and July weather, motor camping for your troutling vacation is the proper plan, for then you can pitch your tent bungalow right on lake or stream and fish morning, noon or night, at will.

You can be up at daylight, when the woodland bird concert awakens you and affords a pleasant contrast from the buzz of the alarm clock. Then you can hike to the nearby waters or just turn over and snore, as you take the notion.

In this way, when you locate for some time on one stream, you can locate the lunkers, and by sneaking back at intervals eventually you will dangle just the right bait and land the whoppers which otherwise you stand slight chances of hooking.

Then, if troutling goes into low gear, or the crowds infringe upon your sport, you can quickly fold your rughouse and amble on to other lakes or streams and find sport and brain food to your satisfaction.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of helpful hints to fishermen, appearing exclusively in The Gazette.

Sportistory

Wednesday, June 13

Walter Johnson fanned ten Chicago White Sox in a game, 1910. It was this season in which Johnson rolled up his record of 313 strikeouts.

With Christy Mathewson pitched a no-hit game against Chicago for the Giants, 1905, Score, 1-0.

Babe Ruth hit his third and last home run of the 1917 season. He hit two home runs this date off Dauss of Detroit, 1921.

R. Hubbard in the running broad jump leaped 25 feet, 10 7/8 inches for a new record, 1925.

Personalities IN SPORT

Robert Moses Grove, star left-handed pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, was born at Lonaconing, Md., March 6, 1900.

Grove began his professional career at Martinsburg, in the Blue Ridge league in 1920. The same year he went to Baltimore, where he aided greatly in winning the string of International league championships the Orioles rolled up.

Baltimore Grove won twenty-five games in 1921, twenty-seven in 1923 and twenty-six in 1924. He was sold in 1924 to the Athletics.

He really did not get going with the A's until 1927, when he won twenty games and lost but thirteen, for a .606 average.

WICAL IS PITCHING WELL AT CHARLOTTE

Thurman Wical, formerly of the Bowers Bayliffs, is said to be the sensation of the Sally League this spring as a member of the pitching staff of the Charlotte, N. C. Hornets.

Wical has a pitching record to date of a few points better than a .300 average, indicating that he is winning a big majority of his games.

"GIRL LINDBERGH" Amelia Earhart Likened To Trans-Atlantic Hero—Is Determined.

By JOSEPH S. WARD, Jr.

Staff Writer for Central Press and The Gazette

BOSTON, Mass., June 13.—The "Girl Lindbergh," so frequently likened to the flying colonel, resembles him in more ways than one. In the first place, and most noticeable, is the matter of appearance. There is the same slight, tall figure, and the same blonde coloring, the same pointed face, and remarkably similar features.

But in addition, both flyers are marked by a calm fixity of purpose, a monosyllabic reticence, a determination which overcomes all obstacles, and a thoroughness which prevents mistakes before they happen.

Knew What She Wanted. These qualities have been present in Miss Amelia Earhart ever since she was a little girl, her mother and sister agreed. They picture a childhood in which this slight, blonde youngster, known, exactly what she wanted and went ahead to get it. Always gracious, always considerate, and always determined.

She was born at Atchison, Kansas, in 1898. Her early childhood was passed in that place, until the family moved to Chicago. Her primary schooling was divided between Atchison and Chicago, and in the Illinois city she attended the Hyde Park School.

AUTHOR AND BRIDE ON HONEYMOON

Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, widow of the late steel magnate, library founder, and philanthropist, snapped at Dunfermline, Scotland, as she called on Miss Lauder, left, a cousin of Carnegie. Mrs. Carnegie was en route to Skibo Castle, Scotland, her summer home.

The world's endurance record was shattered when the Italian ace, Major Arturo Ferrarin, (below) and Commander Carlo P. del Prete (above) landed at Montecello Field, near Rome after remaining aloft 53 hours 30 minutes. Their Savoia-Marchetti plane covered an estimated distance of 4,300 miles during the flight. Previous holders of the title were Eddie Stinson and Capt. George W. Haldeman.

Boyish King Michael of Rumania, pictured out walking with his mother, the Princess Helene, probably thinks a lot more of his shiny American fire engine than he does of his royal crown, but his loyal subjects nevertheless are up in arms over published statements of the exiled Prince Carol that he only awaits an opportune moment to claim Rumania's throne.

When Calvin Whatley, 15, of Dallas, Tex., heard a noise in a room occupied by his little brothers and sisters he got his father's shotgun and tiptoed in. A burglar was standing beside the bed with a knife in his hand. Calvin pulled the trigger three times, but there was no report. Then the man started for the boy, and Calvin, backing out the door tried the gun again. This time it discharged and the intruder ran, leaving a bloody trail behind. Photo shows Calvin with his father's shotgun.

WHICH ONE IS MUSSOLINI?

Well, not to keep you in suspense, we will tell you that Mussolini does not show in this picture. His double, Saviero Della Sicilia, of New York, practices his profession of barber and lets his famous double "Il Duce" take care of the statecraft. Sicilia is shown in the characteristic poses of Benito Mussolini and is remarkable for the close resemblance.

BEAUTY ABOUNDS FOR COOLIDGES ON SUMMER ESTATE

They show, left above, the rustic bridge leading from the lodge across the stream, the Brule river, to the dining hall; right, a view of the lodge on the island; and below, left, one of the pine trails near the lodge; and, right, a deer reserve on the estate. The property was owned by Henry Clay Pierce, pioneer Texas oil man, who died a year ago. It consists of 6,000 acres in the heart of Wisconsin's trout and timber district.

MURDER MYSTERY PUZZLES BOSTON

Boston police have been mystified over the shooting to death of Miss Mary Mahan, 21, cabaret singer, whose bullet-riddled body was found in a sand pit on a reservation within the city limits. Search has been instituted for John Tartar, 27, left above, taxi driver, said to have driven with the girl to the spot with another driver, whom he told to "take the air." The other driver walked away from the scene and a minute later heard a dozen shots. No motive for the crime is known. Tartar fled from the sand pit in the cab. The scene of the shooting is shown below.

CAESAR HAD HIS BRUTUS

ROMAN HISTORY GIVES ANSWER TO "WHY TRADE IN XENIA"--

CAESAR HAD HIS BRUTUS

Once there was a Caesar
Once there was a Brutus
Caesar loved Brutus
Brutus was a "Friend" of Caesar

On the Ides of March in the year forty four B. C. Caesar was assassinated in the Senate.

Twenty-three wounds inflicted by the traitorous daggers of the "Friendly Conspirators" remained upon his body after these "Honorable Men of Rome" had completed the undoing of this great figure of antiquity.

One, and the most painful of the wounds, had been struck by the weapon of the "Friendly Brutus."

Brutus was indeed a "Friend" of Caesar.

Everyone is acquainted with this story; it happened nearly twenty centuries ago.

And yet this tragedy is repeating itself almost daily under our very eyes and we take no notice of it.

Xenia loves every one of the twelve thousand inhabitants within its domain.

Some of these citizens are the so called "Friends" of Xenia, who are stabbing their city through the heart and draining its life's blood by trading elsewhere.

Are you a "Friendly Brutus" of your city?

Are you falling in with the "Friendly Conspirators" whose motto is "Don't Trade in Xenia"?

It is time that the people of Xenia should come to the realization that united a city will stand but divided it is certain to fall.

There is one way, and only one, to stay the hands of the conspirators and that is by trading in Xenia yourself and inducing others to do likewise.

"Why trade in Xenia"? We should trade in Xenia because every cent we leave with our home merchants adds to the prosperity of Xenia, and every cent we spend out of town, is a stab in the heart of our city's progress. Are YOU a Brutus?

Written by William Kennedy, 604 W. Second St.

William Kennedy, 604 W. Second St., delves into Roman history for the theme of his contribution, which won fourth prize in the ad writing contest recently conducted by the Xenia Retail Merchants Association.

He points out the analogy between the tragedy of Caesar, who was slain by his friends and the city of Xenia, which is being assassinated by many of its citizens.

On one side he paints a picture of the dying emperor, more grieved to learn that his friend Brutus was among the conspirators than he was at the actual dagger blows that laid him low.

On the other side he pictures Xenia, a beautiful municipality, reared here on the fertile plains of Southern Ohio by the labors of hardy pioneers, its foundation laid upon the blood that was shed, the tears that were spilled and the energy that was expended that here might be created a liveable and lovable place dedicated to future generations.

But alas, according to the picture painted by William, the city is anemic, weak, purposeless, although striving to defend itself against the blows of those who would emulate Brutus and his conspirators.

Xenia, he revealed, is anemic because its life-blood is being sapped by those who would take all they can get from the city and give nothing in return.

It is weak, he indicates, because there are many among us who are traitors to Xenia, and the dissatisfaction neutralizes the achievements of the forward looking, and progress is restrained.

It is purposeless, he would have you know, because its citizens lack co-operation, and where one does his duty loyally by his home town merchants, another defeats the good that has been done, by patronizing merchants in other cities, so that in the end there has been no achievement.

A remedy for this sad state of affairs, is also written in the advertisement of William Kennedy. He suggests that if Xenia is to survive, if progress is to be attained and the future is to be insured, then Xenia's resources must be husbanded, and buying at home is one of its resources. Buy at home then, becomes the word of the hour.

RESTLESS LOVE

© By Samuel Merwin 1928
RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Ackland Center, a little old town in New England, is proud of its beauty and traditions. But the modern world is fast crowding in on its peace. Finally, a notorious roadhouse, Jazzyland, is opened by a gang of bootleggers. Liquor flows. Girls of the town are lured there.

Editor Hamilton Pew, of "The Weekly Age," is in the fight of his life against this new menace. He has been warned by a mysterious voice over the phone to stop his editorial attacks on Jazzyland. Stella Bagot, one of the village girls, has drifted into New York and into the magazine writing game. She has been very successful. Homer Pew, younger brother of the crusading editor, has been persuaded to go to New York to find greater opportunities. He looks up his old school friend, Stella, and they are now living together.

Now go on with the story

CHAPTER VII

"This is really almost too delightful to be true," said he, happily, across the table-for-two. At least he hadn't suspected that odd little twinge of annoyance. "Meeting you and all those interesting men at one clip, and being picked right up and included in the fun."

"Oh, they're really just a lot of friendly, hardworking folks," said she.

"You interest me enormously."

"It's funny!"

"You've made such a grand go of it."

"Oh, hardly yet."

"Rather! When I look back and think of you with those two funny pigtales..."

"I hope you don't mind my saying right out loud that you're a terribly attractive girl."

"Mind? I'm flattered half to death."

"I can see that you've grown out of all my recollections. Mentally, I mean. And personally. You've struck your gait."

"This is wonderful! Do go on!"

"Please don't kid me."

"I'm not kidding. Remember that remark of Mark Twain's that he could work three months on one good compliment? Well, that's me."

"Funny—I seem to be in rather a personal vein... hope you don't mind."

"Not a bit! Have a cigarette?"

"Thanks. Naturally, I've had you on my mind because I was able to call up. And I've wondered what you'd be like, I figured you'd naturally be rather Newyorky."

"And am I?"

"Not a bit. I was prepared to find you even a little hard-boiled. You know how New Yorkers can appear to us outsiders."

"I'm afraid I've rather lost that point of view. Of course I know how my parents feel about me."

"She was sober now, and frank. But that's something I simply can't help. I've had to strike out. Of course I've changed."

"I'd say you've developed."

"Thanks for that. And there's no sense, when I do look in on the folks, of pretending I haven't—I can't be a hypocrite."

"Naturally. But you rather puzzle me."

"Puzzle you? Why?"

"You're so darned pretty and human. I should have thought you'd have married before this."

"Oh, no." Her pretty poised head moved in firm negation. "No, I'm far from that."

"It seems odd, though."

"I don't know. Probably I've been lucky in escaping falling in love up to now. It raises such problems. The sex life is evidently a world of experience and often a trouble. A man would have to interest me a lot. You know, absorb me. And the fact appears to be that nobody has. Oh, there've been men around, of course. There's one that thinks he's in love with me, I'm fond of him, too. He's interesting, and he's been through a lot of real trouble. Particularly with his wife. She fell to musing. "You met him to-day."

Homer was silent. This was the New York sort of talk, of course. The directness, the downright bluntness of it, left him a bit breathless. But he was telling himself, he liked it. Better than the old evasions. Funny, that a married man should be in love with her, seemed to be taken simply as a matter of course. Her mind evidently wasn't dwelling on that side of it.

"No," she mused on, but now. "I ever had the bad luck to find myself in love with a man, I think I'd go straight to him and tell him so. But that's something else again."

"Glorifying the American Girl" which Paramount planned to produce in co-operation with Florenz Ziegfeld will not be made this season, it is definitely announced by the production department of Paramount-Famous Lasky Corporation.

Difficulty in obtaining a story adequate to represent the unusual and spectacular possibilities of the setting was given as the reason for abandoning the plan. Ruth Elder, trans-Atlantic flight heroine, who was signed for the leading role in the picture, will instead become leading woman for Richard Dix in "Moran of the Marines," glorifying the American leather-neck.

Most of the preparatory work on "The Singing Fool," in which Al Jolson will star with the Vitaphone, has been completed. The important task of selecting the young woman to play opposite Jolson is over, Betty Bronson, the "Peter Pan" girl having been chosen.

"Nightstick," the Broadway success of the past season, from the pen of Elliott Nugent, alumni of Ohio State University, will be filmed by United Artists. "Nightstick" is a story of the underworld in which the point of view of the police instead of the criminal is stressed, is anxious to disillusion the younger generation that so-called high-powered crooks are "romantic."

Well, here's his photo to prove it, although he isn't Governor Al Smith, of New York. He is Dr. Al Smith, of Nashville, Tenn., editor of a Methodist paper, who has attained high church rank as preacher and writer.

SEQUI-CENTENNIAL OF ESCAPE OF BOONE TO BE CELEBRATED

During the Revolutionary War, Daniel Boone was on the Western border of Virginia in what is now known as Kentucky, protecting the colonies from invasions by the British and Indians from the north. When he and twenty-seven men from his garrison were captured and taken to Old Chillicothe, Boone escaped and fled to Boonesboro, Ky., 160 miles due south. Boone left at day break June 16, 1778 and passed through Greene County over what is known as the Xenia or Bullshead road. (Detroit Star.)

After five months of captivity he escaped and fled to Boonesboro, Ky., 160 miles due south. Boone left at day break June 16, 1778 and passed through Greene County over what is known as the Xenia or Bullshead road. (Detroit Star.)

The Daughters of the American Revolution will celebrate the Sequi-Centennial of Boone's escape at Edenton, Clermont County, June 17, the services beginning at 2 p. m. The meeting will be held at the Methodist church, but on account of the large crowds, they usually attend patriotic meetings in that section, arrangements have been made for overflow meetings. Hon. Flen D. Sampson, governor of Kentucky, Dr. W. A. Galloway, of Xenia, Chief Crow Foot, of Columbus, last survivor of Wyandotte tribe in Ohio, Anna Quinby, Edenton, O., and many others will speak. A number of the descendants and relatives of the Boone family have promised to be present.

On account of the history connected with Boone's escape the teachers and pupils of Clermont and nearby counties have been invited to be present, also descendants of the early settlers of Southwestern Ohio.

After the exercises in the church Mr. Richard Blanchard will carry a flag with thirteen stars at the head of a procession which will march to the State Park on the east side of the village. At the foot of the monument which marks the trail of Boone through Edenton, flowers will be placed in his memory. Descendants of other pioneers will also bring flowers and place them with Boone's in memory of their ancestors.

The flag which Mr. Blanchard will carry is over 100 years old and was used on the wagon train in war of 1812 which went through Edenton over the old Xenia Road being supplies to Perry's fleet at Sandusky. There were fifteen wagons in this train, each wagon had eight horses and manned by two armed men. This was necessary because the mother country still claimed the northern part of Ohio and this train had to pass through this territory. For nearly two years this caravan bumped over the corduroy roads. Perry's victory decided the northern boundary of the United States. This old road has figured in two great wars, Wayne cut it out when he was driving the Indians out of Ohio, later in War

BORAH WINS VICTORY AS COMMITTEE TAKES DRY POLICY STAND

A job lot. It is controlled by New Englanders and easterners. It's packed against the agricultural south and west.

Two other fights will be carried from the committee to the floor. Senator LaFollette, the Wisconsin Progressive leader, plans to submit to the 1,089 delegates a minority platform. He will be supported by the militant farm representatives.

There is no likelihood that any of the minority moves will be successful, convention officials declared.

The fight over farm relief broke over the demands of the Illinois and Iowa representatives for a plank embracing the principles of the McNary-Haugen bill, endorsed by all the presidential candidates save Herbert Hoover. Hoover's forces favored a promise of tariff relief to farmers, and an extension of federal aid to assist cooperative marketing. The committee twice tried to break the deadlock but did not succeed. It was agreed that some form of farm relief would be written into the platform before it was submitted to the convention.

A corruption plank sponsored by Borah pledged the party to give full publicity to campaign receipts and expenditures. It was designed to cover the election scandals of past years, and to serve a warning against excessive campaign funds. Every facility will be accorded congressional committees in running down election expenditures.

The foreign relations plank declared that American marines were in Nicaragua solely to protect America lives and prosperity and to supervise the elections. The principle of outlawing war by treaty was endorsed.

Another plank urged development of inland waterways.

In agreeing upon the platform the committee first considered the proposals in the Smoot draft which drew little objection and left the controversial planks, such as prohibition and farm relief, to the end.

The corruption and one or two other planks, while approved in principle, were held up for minor changes in the phraseology.

What Doctors Think of the Laxative Habit

In all history, no Indian was ever known to have constipation. Nor need YOU. He chewed the bark of a tree called cascara. Today, we have the candy cascara. Cascaraizing the bowels never forms a laxative habit. If already formed, an occasional cascara will usually break the habit. For cascara strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels, and their need of any aid at all grows constantly less. What other cathartic has this characteristic? The writer knows of none.

An evacuation brought gently about by cascara will, nine times in ten, be followed by full functioning of the bowels on the morrow. REACTION as with sickening salts, or any of the man-made purgatives that go through one's system like a bullet.

Physicians tell us cascara is the ideal laxative—and the tongue tells us candy cascara is their ideal form. At least a million people know this; what a pity there are any who don't! Especially parents, because children love to take a cascara. After which, for days on end, the bowels will be seen to work of their own accord.

The only habit from cascara is that of regularity! Cascara's tone and train the bowels. But at the first sign of returning sluggishness another cascara is as effective as the first.

There isn't a druggist who hasn't cascara's, so WHY experiment with laxatives? —Adv.

SCHMIDT BLDG., TO BE RE-BUILT; CONTRACT HAS BEEN AWARDED

Reconstruction of the Schmidt Bldg., S. Detroit St., razed by fire last winter, is expected to start this week, following the awarding of the general contract to McCarran Brothers, local contracting firm.

The new building will be three stories high and will be erected at an estimated cost of $23,000, according to H. E. Schmidt, owner. The cost estimate includes $20,000 for the general contract and about $3,000 more for other expenses attached to the construction.

Bids were opened this week with McCarrans submitting the low bid. There were about eight bidders, including four bids on the general contract. The contract specifies that the work be completed in sixty days.

The front of the building will be of tan pressed brick, with terra-cotta trimmings.

The ground floor will be arranged for a store room with a display front, the second floor will be made into offices and the third floor will be intended for use as a club room.

The second floor will have four large rooms and floor space of twenty by 160 feet will be provided.

A steam heating plant will be installed in the basement.

The rear wall is expected to be entirely torn down and re-built.

The ground floor, until the recent fire, was occupied by the Schmidt grocery, which re-opened for business a block south of the old location.

Plans and specifications were prepared by H. W. Owens, local architect.

HEALTH HINTS
For Parents

Here's a way to make the most delicate boy hale and hearty, and "hard as nails." A way to build his body, and put on weight. Heed this hint, and no boy or girl of yours need ever take another cathartic!

Most ailments of children begin with being bilious; and the trouble then and there, with a spoonful of California Fig Syrup. Nothing stronger, nothing else. The bowels will do their duty without using force! If your children have already contracted the laxative habit, fig syrup will wean them away from it.

California Fig Syrup is a purely vegetable product. It will do any child a world of good; it is, in fact, a very wonderful conditioner for children or adults. Its rich, fruity flavor is so delicious, it's no hardship to take! Nor can it harm even an infant! Only one caution: be sure to get the genuine California Fig Syrup; don't neglect to say "California." It isn't expensive—sixty cents for a generous bottle at all dealers.

Try California Fig Syrup two weeks on any child, and let his altered appearance and actions tell the full story! —Adv.

THE sound of your voice is the nearest thing to an actual visit home. For it's really YOU. It makes the folks at home feel that you are close to them and you in turn feel that you are retaining the associations of younger days.

Out-of-town telephone service enables you to "visit" the old folks often at very little cost and no effort. The service today is greatly simplified. You can give "Long Distance" the number wanted, and in most cases hold the line while the operator makes the connection—often in less than a minute. If you don't know the number, call the Information operator and she gladly will obtain it for you.

The cost of out-of-town telephone service is surprisingly low, as the rates on a few typical calls will show. For instance, calling by number during the day from Columbus to Dayton costs only $.55; Columbus to Cleveland, $.85; Columbus to Indianapolis, $1.05; Springfield to Detroit, $1.05; Zanesville to Pittsburgh, $.75; Steubenville to Columbus, $.85; Columbus to New York, $2.30; Dayton to Chicago, $1.35.

The meeting will be held at the Methodist Church, but on account of the large crowds which usually attend patriotic meetings in that section, for overflow meetings, Hon. Clem D. ## BORAH WINS VICTORY AS COMMITTEE TAKES DRY POLICY STAND

A job lot. It is controlled by New Englanders and easterners. It's soaked and against the agricultural south and west."

Two other fights will be carried from the committee to the floor.

Senator LaFollette, the Wisconsin Progressive leader, plans to submit to the 1924 delegates a minority platform. He will be supported by the militant form representatives.

There is no likelihood that any of the minority moves will be successful, convention officials declared.

The fight over farm relief broke over the demands of the Illinois and Iowa representatives. It is a plank embracing the principles of the McNary-Haugen bill, endorsed by all the presidential candidates save Herbert Hoover. Hoover's forces favored a promise of tariff relief to farmers, and an extension of federal aid to assist cooperative marketing. The committee twice tried to break the deadlock but did not succeed. It was agreed that some form of farm relief would be written into the platform before it was submitted to the convention.

A corruption plank sponsored by Borah pledged the party to give full publicity to campaign receipts and expenditures. It was designed to cover scandals of past years, and to serve a warning against excessive campaign funds. Every facility will be accorded congressional committees in running down election expenditures.

The foreign relations plank declared that American marines were in Nicaragua solely to protect America lives and prosperity and left the controversial plank, such as prohibition and farm relief, to the end.

The corruption and one or two other planks, while approved in principle, were held up for minor changes in the phraseology.

HEALTH HINTS For Parents

Here's a way to make the most delicate boy hale and hearty, and "hard as nails." A way to build his body, and put on weight. Heed this hint, and no boy or girl of yours need ever take another cathartic!

Most ailments of children begin with being bilious; and the trouble then and there, with a spoonful of California Fig Syrup. Nothing stronger, nothing else. The bowels will do their duty without using force! If your children have already contracted the laxative habit, fig syrup will wean them away from it.

California Fig Syrup is a purely vegetable product. It will do any child a world of good; it is, in fact, a very wonderful conditioner for children or adults. Its rich, fruity flavor is so delicious, it's no hardship to take! Nor can it harm even an infant! Only one caution: be sure to get the genuine California Fig Syrup; don't neglect to say "California." It isn't expensive—sixty cents for a generous bottle at all dealers.

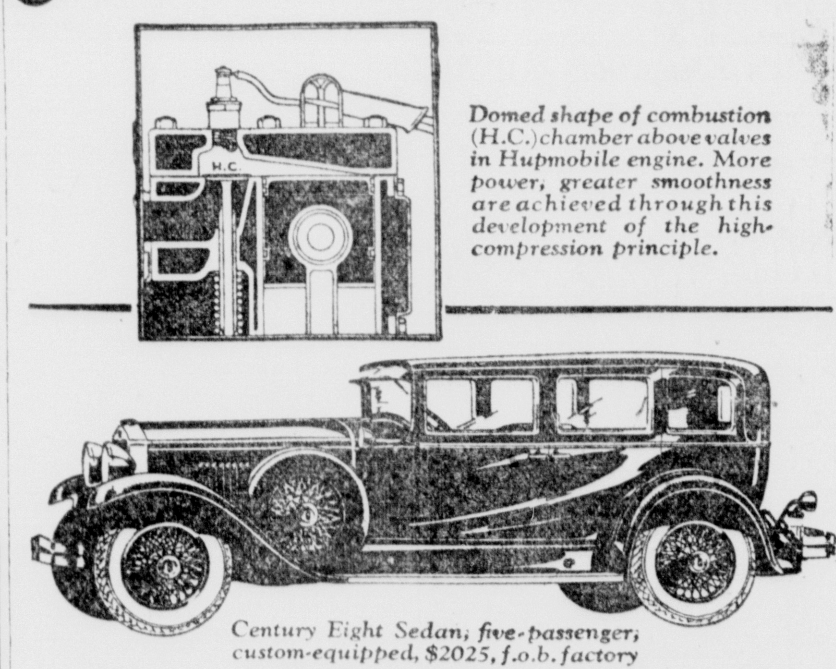

Try California Fig Syrup two weeks on any child, and let his altered appearance and actions tell the full story! —Adv.

FATHER

Who is it wears the patchwork hose
And seldom goes to Picture Shows
That his girl may have fine clothes—
It's Father!
Who is it wears last Summer's hat
That his boy may join a College Frat
And thinks it's quite all right at that—
It's Father!
Who is it buys the bread and meat
And keeps the shoes on all our feet
And then gets shoved on a back seat—
It's Father!
We have Mother's Day and Poppy Day
And lots of other holidays
But almost all are Labor Days—

Get out his slippers and easy chair
Caress and smooth his ruffled hair
And let him know you're glad he's there—

What Doctors Think of the Laxative Habit

In all history, no Indian was ever known to have constipation. Nor need YOU! He chewed the bark of a tree called cascara. Today, we have the candy cascara. Cascaring the bowels never forms a laxative habit. It already formed, an occasional cascara will usually break the habit. For cascara strengthens the muscular walls of the bowels, and their need of any aid at all grows constantly less. What other cathartic has this characteristic? The writer knows of none.

An evacuation brought gently about by cascara will, nine times in ten, be followed by full functioning of the bowels on the morrow—and for days after. For there is no REACTION as with sickening salts, or any of the man-made purgatives that go through one's system like a bullet.

Physicians tell us cascara is the ideal laxative—and the tongue tells us candy cascara is its ideal form. At least a million people know this; what a pity there are any who don't! Especially parents; because children love to take a cascara. After which, for days on end, the bowels will be seen to work of their own accord.

The only habit of cascara is that of regularity! Cascara tone and train the bowels. But at the first sign of returning sluggishness another cascara is as effective as the first.

There isn't a doctor who hasn't cascared, so WHY experiment with laxatives? —Adv.

The old folks do enjoy hearing from you

THE sound of your voice is the nearest thing to an actual visit home. For it's really YOU. It makes the folks at home feel that you are close to them and you in turn feel that you are retaining the associations of younger days.

Out-of-town telephone service enables you to "visit" the old folks often at very little cost and no effort. The service today is greatly simplified. You can give "Long Distance" the number wanted, and in most cases hold the line while the operator makes the connection—often in less than a minute. If you don't know the number, call the Information operator and she gladly will obtain it for you.

The cost of out-of-town telephone service is surprisingly low, as the rates on a few typical calls will show. For instance, calling by number during the day from Columbus to Dayton costs only $.55; Columbus to Cleveland, $.85; Columbus to Indianapolis, $1.05; Springfield to Detroit, $1.05; Zanesville to Pittsburgh, $.75; Steubenville to Columbus, $.85; Columbus to New York, $2.30; Dayton to Chicago, $1.35.
